Micah 6:8: What does the Lord require of us but to act justly, love mercy and walk humbly with our God.

The word “Shalom” conveys a powerful concept of peace. This is not just the absence of conflict, it is an all-encompassing peace:
- Peace with God
- Peace with one another
- Peace with creation

Shalom captures God’s intent and purpose for us all. Life in all its fullness. It reflects the Kingdom of God’s relational dynamic.

Micah 6:8: What does the Lord require of us but to act justly, love mercy and walk humbly with our God
Micah 6:8: What does the Lord require of us but to act justly, love mercy and walk humbly with our God
Micah 6:8 states that the fruit of righteousness / justice will be peace....

As much as we long for Shalom we also realise that without justice there can be no peace. At the heart of integral mission is justice. Justice is not a programme or project it is a characteristic of God and so should become a characteristic of ours. We don’t do justice - we live justice. How do we do this?

- Justice is the fair access of basic needs and services for all people
- Justice ensures the vulnerable in society are given special care and attention
- Justice ensures that those who are disadvantaged are liberated and restored
- Justice is the absence of the abuse of power

We know that wherever there is abuse of power (family, church, community, work, business, national governance, globally) there can be no peace.

Through integral mission, we seek to create situations in which people can know and access life in all its fullness (John 10:10 – I have come that they may have life, and have it to the full).

The Micah Triennial Global Consultation’s theme draws us together to address these crucial themes that impact every aspect of our lives. We invite you to join us as we wrestle through the issues affecting our world and consider together our united response.

Call for Papers

If you are interested in contributing to a collection of works which will develop our theology and practice in the application of Integral Mission and Shalom, we are calling for contributions of:
